These authors also found no relationship between frequency of exposure to violence in the home and frequency of exposure to violence in the community. We included a dummy variable for living in a high-crime area (1 = high-crime area, 0 = low-crime area) based on the findings of Farrington et al. (1990) and the National Longitudinal Study of the Youth (NLSY; 1997). We also included a dummy variable for gender.

Tobacco use is the leading cause of preventable death and disability in the United States, and it is a major risk factor for heart disease, cancer, and other chronic diseases.
